

Commissioner Diana Halleman

Diana Reynolds Halleman currently serves on a number of nonprofit boards including Celebrate Frederick and the Woman to Woman Mentoring Program at Frederick Community College. Ms. Halleman is a passionate advocate for community service and participates regularly in many local activities. She was appointed to and continues to serve on the Neighborhood Advisory Council (NAC5) and the City Personnel Board. Ms. Halleman is also a trained mediator and large group facilitator.

A former journalist, Ms. Halleman graduated in 1996 from Virginia Commonwealth University with a BS degree in Mass Communications. When time permits, she hopes to complete work she started at Mount St. Mary's University for her MBA in management. She currently resides in Frederick with her husband and daughter and is employed as Office Manager/Volunteer Coordinator for the Literacy Council of Frederick County.
